CUPID LEADS PRINCESS TO ALTAR

PRINCESS YOLANDA OF ITALY AND THE MAN SHE MARRIES, COUNT CALVI DI BERGOLO

BRIDE FIRST OF HOUSE OF SAVOY TO WED OUTSIDE OF ROYALTY

Brilliant Assemblage Marks Wedding of Daughter of Italy's Rulers to Count Who Won Decoration for Valor During the World War.

Rome, Italy, April 9.—Princess Yolanda, eldest daughter of King Emanuel and Queen Helena, was married today to Count Calvi di Bergolo, a captain of infantry, who holds a decoration for bravery in the World War.

The civil ceremony, which took place at 10 o'clock in the grand hall of the Quirinal Palace was followed immediately by the celebration of the religious rites in the Pauline chapel, also within the Quirinal. Because of the recent death of the Princess's maternal grandmother, Queen Milena of Montenegro, the services were conducted as simply as possible.

The grand hall is the chamber wherein under the Pope's jurisdiction the conclave of cardinals met for the choice of the rulers of the church. More recently President Wilson and other personages of contemporary history have been entertained there. It presented a brilliant spectacle today, gay with spring flowers and animated by the colorful uniforms of the 700 high state and municipal dignitaries who were privileged to attend.

ALCOHOLISM DEATHS INCREASE IN N. D.; WOOD ALCOHOL FATAL TO 71

An increase in deaths due to alcoholism exclusive of wood alcohol poisoning, of 133 per cent was noted in 1922 over the preceding year, according to the North Dakota state public health board bulletin, just published. The number of deaths rose from 122 in 1921 in this state to 280 in 1922, an increase of 0.9 per 100,000 to 2.1.

This is the highest death rate for alcoholism since 1917, but is much lower than rates recorded prior to 1918, the bulletin states. From 1917 to 1920 there was a decided downward trend in deaths due to alcoholism.

Deaths due to wood alcohol poisoning are not included in these figures, it was reported. In 1921 there were 71 deaths due to that cause. Figures have not yet been compiled for 1922. Prior to 1920 a death resulting from wood alcohol poisoning was a very rare occurrence.

RUHR TRAFFIC IMPEDED WHEN BOMB EXPLODES

Effort Made to Tie Up Other Canals in Intricate Ruhr Water System

GREAT CARE WAS USED

French Rush Guards to Strategic Points to Prevent Further Tie-up

Essen, Germany, April 9.—The explosion of a time bomb destroyed the lock of the Dortmund-Ems canal near Herne, early today. The canal was blocked, seriously interfering with the complicated inland waterway traffic in the Ruhr.

This is the most serious case of sabotage reported on the Ruhr waterways. The lock, which was destroyed, is near the junction of the Dortmund-Ems canal, with the main canal that runs down to the Rhine at Duisburg and Ruhrort, where the largest inland water port in the world is located.

The intention of the dynamiters apparently was not only to block the canal, but to drain the water from the main Rhine-Herne canal, which is the main waterway artery of the Ruhr. The French say that this main canal has not been interfered with, as the locks on both sides of the lock which was dynamited were closed immediately after the explosion to prevent the draining of the main canal.

The Dortmund-Ems canal, itself an important waterway, is blocked by the destruction of the lock. Guards have been placed at all junctions and look like a measure to prevent damage.

The circumstances of the explosion indicated that the bomb had been placed with great care under difficult circumstances. It blew out the gates and tore a large hole in the side of the canal.

EJECT RAILMEN'S FAMILIES

Frankfort-On-Main, April 9.—French stabi (Algerian) troops ejected 100 families within 10 minutes from their dwellings in the German railway men's colony and Duisburg near Preves, according to reports from German quarters today.

The Germans assert the evictions were carried out with unusual ruthlessness, the troops going about with their rifles and sabers ready for action and often striking or shoving the inhabitants in order to accelerate the evacuation of the buildings.

MOTHERS' AID NOT A PAUPER AID MEASURE

Supreme Court Says it is in Nature of Compensation For Rearing Children

Temporary removal from a county is not sufficient cause for cancellation of a mother's pension allowance, the supreme court held today in deciding the case of Una Walker of Renville county.

The mother's pension act "is not a poor relief statute, but the pension therein provided is rather in the nature of a compensation for rearing future citizens in proper surroundings," the supreme court said in an opinion written by Justice Johnson, adding that such an act should be liberally construed.

Mrs. Walker had been granted a pension in Renville county. On April 10, 1920, she moved to Ramsey county, taking a place as housekeeper. About April 14, 1921, the county court of Renville county without notice made an order discontinuing the payment of the pension, effective May 1, 1921, on the ground that she had removed from the county, and had been absent therefrom for more than one year.

FUN PLANNED ALSO AT STATE GUARD'S CAMP

Entertainment along with a lot of work is being planned for the North Dakota National Guard annual encampment at Devils Lake, June 2 to June 20, Maj. Harold Sarason, of the Adjutant-General's office said today. There probably will be both moving picture and radio outfit taken to the camp to provide entertainments. The camp exchange, which will be loaded up with good things to eat, will be conducted by the quartermaster detachment.

The camp ground custodian is clearing out trees to provide more room, and a regimental street is being dug according to plans drafted by Capt. F. L. Anders of Fargo.

Following the encampment, a four-day elimination contest to select members of the North Dakota rifle team to compete in the national rifle tournament will be held.

With recommendation for federal recognition given the battalion headquarters company at Kenmare the regimental units now are complete.

GIVEN INSTRUCTIONS

Madison, Fla., April 9.—The Madison county grand jury was instructed today by Judge M. F. Horn to make a full investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota citizen, who is said to have met his death while serving as a convict in Dixie county more than 11 months ago.

Madison, Fla., April 9.—Postponement until next Wednesday of grand jury investigation into the death of Martin Tabert of Munich, N. D., alleged to have died early in 1921 as a result of brutal treatment received in a Dixie county private convict camp, was announced last night by J. E. Kelley, state's attorney. The grand jurors originally were to convene today.

A charge of murder has been placed against Walter Higginbotham, convict here, now held in a Dixie county jail.

Fifteen witnesses, including fellow workers of Tabert, have been subpoenaed to appear before the jury.

Judge W. J. Kneeshaw of Langdon, N. D., and State's Attorney Grimsom have come here to aid the county officials.

Tabert's death was the incentive behind a number of bills introduced in the Florida legislature looking toward the abolishment of the convict leasing system.

U. S. MINIMUM WAGE LAW IS HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL; MAY AFFECT SIMILAR STATE LAWS

Washington, April 9.—The minimum wage law by which Congress sought to regulate wages paid women and minor girls in the District of Columbia was declared unconstitutional today by the supreme court.

While the validity of none of the state minimum wage laws was directly under attack in the case the decision was regarded as of vital importance, counsel agreeing that if Congress had no authority to enact such a law in the District of Columbia, the right of the state legislatures to do so was called into question.

MELLON URGES FURTHER CUTS IN U. S. TAXES

Secretary of Treasury Declares Lower Taxes Stimulant to Business

MARCH RECORD MADE

Seventy Million Increase in Tax Collections Over Previous Year

Washington, April 9.—A seventy million increase in the March collections of income and profits taxes as compared with the March collections of last year on which the highest surtax income rates applied is a practical answer to the tax problem "and shows clearly what further course revision should take," Secretary Mellon declared in a statement last night.

Forecasting in his official statement possible efforts by the treasury to have Congress further cut the surtax income rates, Secretary Mellon asserted that the March collections of $463,000,000 had fully justified his prediction that downward revision would have the effect of increasing rather than decreasing the federal revenue.

The secretary viewed the increase in collections as proof that the downward revision had acted as a stimulant to business.

Even the present surtax rate which ranged to a maximum of 60 per cent and gives a combined maximum normal and surtax of 65 per cent, Mellon said, are tending to hamper business and cause the large taxpayers to seek every possible means of avoiding the realization of taxable income. The March collections, he said, had "confirmed his conclusion that if the adjustment had been to the maximum of 25 per cent reduction by the treasury the surtaxes would better accomplish their purpose and yield at least as large and probably larger revenue than the existing rates."

PRESIDENT BACK IN WHITE HOUSE, MAY DECIDE YET TO MAKE ALASKAN TRIP, PASSING THROUGH NORTHWEST

Washington, April 9.—President Harding was back at his desk today, having been away on his five-week vacation in the south and ready to shoulder again the accumulation of official business.

The middle of June is now set as a tentative time for the beginning of the trip, but the President has not decided whether he will carry out the proposed tour to the Pacific Coast, with the possible extension to Alaska.

ENGINEER AT TWIN CITIES OUTLINES PLAN

Distillation of Coal Now Being Used at Ford's Michigan Plants, He Says

INCREASES THE VALUE Same Process with Respect to North Dakota Coal May be Used, Engineer Says

Minneapolis, April 9.—Revolutionizing the distillation of coal, Henry Ford is planning, and likely of great importance to the industrial future of the Northwest, Harlow Savage, New York combustion engineering specialist, who speaks here tonight before the engineers of the Twin Cities, said today.

By the use of a low temperature distillation process, his plants at River Rouge, Mich., and Walkerville, Ontario, Mr. Savage said, Mr. Ford extracts the moisture from coal, leaving a high quality residue and valuable by-products.

The same process can be used with respect to North Dakota lignite, Mr. Savage said. The residue of coke from a reduction plant in the lignite fields is as poor quality as the original coal and would mean a 50 percent saving in freight.

"There also would be by-products of motor fuel, a gas that is almost as high quality as natural gas and creosote and tar," he said. "The distillation is new. The plants of Mr. Ford are the only ones that I know of where it is done on a large scale."

ALCOHOLISM DEATHS INCREASE IN N. D.; WOOD ALCOHOL FATAL TO 71

An increase in deaths due to alcoholism, exclusive of wood alcohol poisoning, of 133 per cent was noted in 1922 over the preceding year, according to the North Dakota state public health board bulletin, just published. The number of deaths rose from 122 in 1921 in this state to 289 in 1922, an increase of from 0.9 per 100,000 to 2.1.

This is the highest death rate for alcoholism since 1917, but is much lower than rates recorded prior to 1918, the bulletin states. From 1917 to 1920 there was a decided downward trend in deaths due to alcoholism.

Deaths due to wood alcohol poisoning are not included in these figures, it was reported. In 1921 there were 71 deaths due to that cause. Figures have not yet been compiled for 1922. Prior to 1920 a death resulting from wood alcohol poisoning was a very rare occurrence.

Deaths due to cirrhosis of the liver, a disease closely associated with alcoholism, decreased slightly from 872 in 1921, to 801 in 1922.

The rate of deaths due to automobiles increased 10.7 per cent in 1922 as there were in 1921, the report shows. There were nearly six times as many deaths from automobile accidents in 1922 as there were in 1911, the report shows, and 48 per cent of these deaths were of children under 15 years of age.

Pneumonia and tuberculosis caused by far the greater number of deaths from communicable diseases in 1922, the bulletin states. There were 403 deaths of pneumonia, all forms, and 183 deaths of tuberculosis, all forms, including 152 deaths of pulmonary tuberculosis. Influenza caused 73 deaths and meningitis, 72. There were two deaths from smallpox out of 657 cases of the disease.

Births during the last three months of the year totalled 3,785, compared with 1,204 deaths.

GIVEN INSTRUCTIONS

Madison, Fla., April 9.—The Madison county grand jury was instructed today by Judge M. F. Horn to make a full investigation into the death of Martin Tabert, North Dakota citizen, who is said to have met his death while serving as a convict in Dixie county more than 14 months ago.

Madison, Fla., April 9.—Postponement until next Wednesday of grand jury investigation into the death of Martin Tabert of Munich, N. D., alleged to have died early in 1921 as a result of brutal treatment received in a Dixie county private convict camp, was announced last night by J. E. Kelley, state's attorney. The grand jurors originally were to convene today.

A charge of murder has been placed against Walter Higginbotham, convict boss, now held in a Dixie county jail.

Fifteen witnesses, including fellow workers of Tabert, have been subpoenaed to appear before the jurors.

Judge W. J. Kneeshaw of Langdon, N. D., and State's Attorney Grimsom have come here to aid the county officials.

Tabert's death was the incentive behind a number of bills introduced in the Florida legislature looking toward the abolishment of the convict leasing system.

VISIT FLORIDA GOVERNOR.

Tallahassee, Fla., April 9.—Final plans were being shaped here by the state in connection with the grand jury investigation into the death of Martin Tabert.

Justice W. J. Kneeshaw of North Dakota, stopped over here on their way to Madison. The officials called upon Governor Hardee and the presiding officers of the legislature, which is now in session.

The North Dakota officials expressed their appreciation to the governor and members of the upper and lower houses in expediting the investigation at Madison and for resolving at Madison and for resolving to conduct a legislative inquiry.

Tabert is said to have met his death over a year ago from flogging at a convict camp.

The weekly payment plan, which officials say bears out the prophecy made by Mr. Ford in 1903, that he would build cars for the multitudes was to be explained in detail.

U. S. MINIMUM WAGE LAW IS HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL; MAY AFFECT SIMILAR STATE LAWS

Washington, April 9.—The minimum wage law by which Congress sought to regulate wages paid women and minor girls in the District of Columbia was declared unconstitutional today by the supreme court.

While the validity of none of the state minimum wage laws was directly under attack in the case the decision was regarded as of vital importance, counsel agreeing that if Congress had no authority to enact such a law in the District of Columbia, the right of the state legislatures to do so was called into question.

Miss Klinefelter said. The preliminary summer term will open May 5.

MELLON URGES FURTHER CUTS IN U. S. TAXES

Secretary of Treasury Declares Lower Taxes Stimulant to Business

MARCH RECORD MADE

Seventy Million Increase in Tax Collections Over Previous Year

Washington, April 9.—A seventy million increase in the March collections of income and profits taxes as compared with the March collections of last year on which the higher surtax income rates applied is a practical answer to the tax problem and shows clearly that a further course revision should take, Secretary Mellon declared in a statement last night.

Forecasting in his official statement possible efforts by the treasury to have Congress further cut the surtax income rates Secretary Mellon asserted that the March collections of $463,000,000 had fully justified his prediction that downward revision would have the effect of increasing rather than decreasing the federal revenue.

The secretary viewed the increase in collections as proof that the downward revision had acted as a stimulant to business.

Even the present surtax rate which ranged to a maximum of 50 per cent and gives a combined maximum normal and surtax of 58 per cent, Mr. Mellon said, are tending to hamper business and cause the large taxpayers to seek every possible means of avoiding the realization of taxable income. The March collections, he said, had "confirmed his conclusion that if the adjustment had been to the maximum of 25 per cent recommended by the treasury the surtaxes would better accomplish their purpose and yield at least as large and probably larger revenue than the existing rates."

MOTT BOOSTER BODY FORMED

Mott, N. D., April 9.—"Associated Dakota Land Owners" is the name of a new organization just launched under the direction of F. G. Orr of Mott, having for its purpose the bringing of new settlers to southwestern North Dakota and northwestern South Dakota and district wide co-operation between bankers, landowners, civic organizations and newspapers in a continuous long time campaign of placing actual farmers on land on terms which will insure their future success and the future progress and prosperity of the country.

PRESIDENT BACK IN WHITE HOUSE, MAY DECIDE YET TO MAKE ALASKAN TRIP, PASSING THROUGH NORTHWEST

Washington, April 9.—President Harding was back at his desk today, invigorated by his five-weeks vacation in the south and ready to shoulder again the accumulation of official business.

The President and Mrs. Harding arrived in Washington shortly after noon yesterday from Augusta, Ga., where they spent last week.

The President is taking up important matters now before him with the intention of disposing of as many as possible of them in the next two months to clear the way for the proposed western trip. The middle of June is now set as a tentative time for the beginning of the trip, but the President has not decided whether he will carry out the proposed tour to the Pacific Coast, with the possible extension to Alaska.

In addition to various angles of the political situation, which are expected to receive the President's attention in the next few weeks other important questions are the sugar price situation and plans for disposition of the government merchant fleet.

A preliminary report from the tariff commission on the sugar question is looked for within the next week or two while time required for the preparation of data to be submitted to the president on the merchant marine problem may defer action on that for several weeks.

If President Harding makes his Alaskan trip it is not improbable that he will come through Bismarck.

ENGINEER AT TWIN CITIES OUTLINES PLAN

Distillation of Coal Now Being Used at Ford's Michigan Plants, He Says

INCREASES THE VALUE

Same Process with Respect to North Dakota Coal May be Used, Engineer Says

Minneapolis, April 9.—Revolutionizing use of lignite coal, Henry Ford is making, and likely of great importance to the industrial future of the Northwest, Harlow Savage, New York combustion engineering specialist, who speaks here tonight before the engineers of the Twin Cities, said today.

By the use of a low temperature distillation process at his plants at River Rouge, Mich. and Walkerville, Ontario, Mr. Savage said, Mr. Ford extracts the moisture from coal shipped from West Virginia and obtains a high quality residue and valuable by-products.

The same process can be used with respect to North Dakota lignite, Mr. Savage said. The residue of coke from a reduction plant in the lignite fields is as good quality as the original coal and would mean a 50 percent saving in freight.

"There also would be by-products of motor fuel, a gas that is almost as high quality as natural gas and cresote and tar," he said. "The distillation is new. The plants of Mr. Ford are the only ones that I know of where it is done on a large scale."

RECEIVERS OF EQUITY NAMED

Receivers in Minnesota Appointed for North Dakota

Fargo, April 9.—Judge A. T. Cole in Cass county district court has appointed James Manahan, St. Paul, attorney, and C. U. Somers of Fargo, for years connected with the Equity receivers for the Equity Co-operative Exchange for North Dakota. Receivers have already been appointed for Minnesota. This according to Mrs. Somers is a friendly receiver ship to clear up the debts of the Equity Exchange and a step towards the amalgamation of the various co-operative marketing agencies which will be the aim of a meeting here Tuesday.

The proposed plan is to use the physical properties of the Equity throughout the state consisting of about 80 elevators for the combined Co-operative marketing organizations are the D. L. Grain Growers, North Dakota Wheat Growers and the Equity Co-operative Exchange. Their sales departments under this system would be consolidated.

Police Hunt for Man Dressed

Slayer

San Francisco, Cal., April 7.—Naval authorities have joined in the search for a man dressed in a sailor's uniform who inflicted severe injuries on Rabbi Alfred G. Lane that he died yesterday.

Surgeons operated in an effort to save the Rabbi's life, but he never regained consciousness fully. Soon after the operation he was semi-conscious for a few seconds and muttered the words "Fight" and "Hit" which were interpreted to refer to his assailant.

A watch and a diamond pin were stolen from the Rabbi. His skull had been fractured. Apparently a large water glass figured in the attack. It was found broken and bloody. Rabbi Lane held the degree of doctor of philosophy, and was 22 years of age at the time of death. He was Rabbi of a large synagogue here.

Included in the information were letters from a number of persons in various parts of the country who said they had been mistreated in Florida private convict camps.

The Krause-Draxton bout was stopped in the second round, Krause far outclassing his opponent and administering terrible punishment.

Lou Boomer and Kid Fogarty of Bismarck went four rounds to a popular draw. Sub Smith of Minneapolis outpointed Len Schwabel in six rounds.

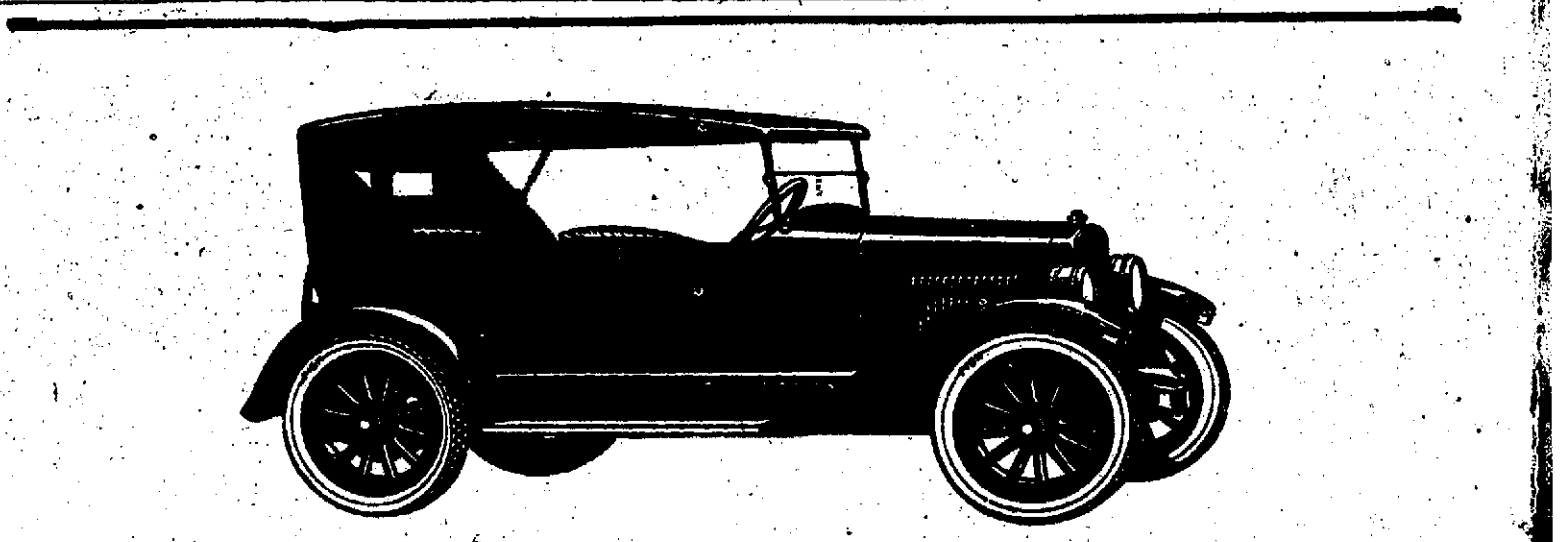

LAHR SALES TO HANDLE CADILLACS

A new Cadillac Service sign, just placed on the big Lahr Motor building, announces the fact that they have contracted to represent the Cadillac factory in this territory. On being questioned today about the appearance of the Cadillac Service sign, Mr. Lahr said, "It is true that we put up our Cadillac Service sign before we made an announcement, but it was only natural for us to do that, for we firmly believe that our sales begin with car service."

"Yes," said Mr. Lahr, when questioned about business, "it's the best year we've had since 1917. We have sold more than four times as many Overland and Willy-Knights to date this year than we did up until May 11 last year, and over thirteen times as many as we did up until April 14 in 1921. This is not idle talk but figures from our records."

"One reason for this wonderful increase in sales is that the buying public is appreciating more and more the remarkable value in the Overland and Willy-Knights cars. The Overland factory is shipping 850 cars each day and expect to have their production up to 1000 cars a day by May 1. I wire the factory every morning, urging them to hurry shipments forward, just as regularly as I eat my breakfast."

"Getting back to Cadillac," said Mr. Lahr, "we took on the Cadillac because we consider it the last word in automobile construction and we have always had a sort of hankering to have that Cadillac Service sign on our building and to be able to sell a Cadillac to the man who could afford one."

A Treasure of a Car

The public has a way of giving honor where honor is due. Certainly Overland was never more worthy. It is the best Overland ever built—at the lowest price. It is better looking, more comfortable, more dependable and more economical.

In our sober judgment Overland is the greatest automobile value in the world. And we back it up to the limit of our resources.

STRENGTH AND SAFETY IN THE BODY OF STEEL

If you could see the main body structure of Dodge Brothers Business Coupe before the enamel is baked on, and before the interior is furnished, you would be profoundly impressed by its strength.

You would see that every panel, every pillar, and every rib is steel—that even the door sills and window mouldings are steel.

You would see that all of these parts and sections are electrically welded together into one staunch steel body, with no bolts or rivets to work loose, nothing to rattle or squeak or warp.

And you would realize that, like the all-steel Pullman coach, this unique construction—originated by Dodge Brothers for this car—represents the last word in protection to passengers—the ultimate achievement in closed car sturdiness.

The price of the Business Coupe is $1155.00 delivered in Bismarck.

Mandan Electric Puts Petition Before Railroad Board

The Mandan Electric company has filed with the state railroad commission for authority to issue $100,000 additional common stock at par value of $100 a share. As a result of the petition the commission has ordered that an appraisal be made of the plant by its engineers to determine its value, commissioners stating the proposed capitalization is presently being in the nature of a stock dividend, the plant being built out of profits.

The petition of the company says it was organized Dec. 15, 1909, and first operated in connection with Missouri Valley Milling company. Dividends were paid for 11 years. The petition states, the profits being paid back into the company.

The articles of incorporation of the company provided for $200,000 capital stock, of which but $100,000 has been issued, it is stated.

The present plant was constructed in 1910, the petition further states, and the company placed a value on it in 1919 of $172,552.38. With overhead costs, materials, working capital, which was omitted, the valuation actually is in excess of $225,000, the petition states.

It further says that in 1920, 1921 and 1922 dividends were paid totaling less than 7 per cent on a valuation of $200,000. The petition is signed by G. A. Renden, president, and J. H. Newton, secretary.

ANNOUNCEMENT

of Interest to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude" Said Henry Ford in 1903 — Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership.

During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford Cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

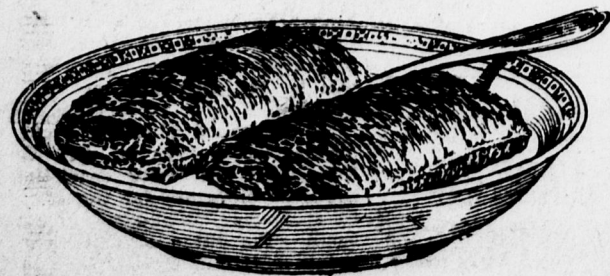

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with The Copelin Motor Company Bismarck dealer. They will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

UTILITY ACTS DEFENDED BY N.D. ATTORNEYS

Railroad Commission Given no Unconstitutional Powers, Brief Says

ANSWER UTILITY CO.

Defense of laws conferring upon the state railroad commission powers over public utilities is made on behalf of the commission in a brief filed in the supreme court by Attorney General George Shafer and Assistant Attorney General John Thorpe. The case, it is expected, will be heard at the May term of the supreme court.

The utilities acts do not confer either legislative or judicial powers upon the state railroad commission, the brief of the state in reply to that filed in behalf of the Hughes Electric company of Bismarck, which is attacking the validity of the law, and asserts that the questions have been squarely decided in other states.

"Under due process of law," says the state's brief, referring to the utility's claim that it may be deprived of process without due process of law under the utilities acts, "we can find no cause for complaint by the appellants because the act specifically provides for notice to be given to the utility in each instance and upon every matter concerning it. It provides for a hearing to be had and throughout various sections provides that the utility shall have an opportunity to introduce evidence and testimony and excludes everything not offered or introduced in evidence by virtue of the fact that the act requires the commissioners to make findings based upon the evidence introduced before them."

"It provides that any order of the board shall not become final until twenty days after its service, giving ample time for the utility to bring a bill in equity or injunctive proceeding to restrain the enforcement of the order if it is illegal or unconstitutional, and that it is confiscatory, and after the order has become final, it grants to the utility thirty days in which to appeal to the district court where a review is had upon the evidence as introduced before the Commission to determine if the order is lawful, and the act requiring the rates to be reasonable would necessitate that the order must establish reasonable rates in order to be lawful."

BRIDE FIRST OF HOUSE OF SAVOY TO WED

the British royal family previously had wedded commoners. Princess Mary married a man belonging to a house ennobled for centuries. Princess Yolanda married a man whose house has been ennobled only for a bare century.

The title of Mary's husband was gilded by a fortune estimated at $15,000,000. Yolanda's bridegroom has only modest estates.

But all Italy is rejoicing because the bridegroom is of Yolanda's own race and religion and was wounded in defending Italian soil against the Austrian invaders.

Marriage For Love
This is a marriage for love, not for reasons of state; hence it was celebrated with great simplicity. No invitations were forwarded to foreign courts.

The wedding was a family affair, performed at the Quirinal palace in Rome, where the royal family resides.

Economy in Trousseau
In keeping with the economizing spirit of the Fascist Italy, the princess asked that no wedding gifts be bestowed upon her. Instead she asked that money intended for such purposes be given to various charities.

However, she got one present. The officers of the bridegroom's regiment followed the regimental tradition when a brother officer weds and gave her a solid silver tray, engraved with the arms and motto of the regiment and scenes from battles in which it distinguished itself.

It was far from a regal trousseau that was prepared for the future Duchess di Montemagno—from the title which will be bestowed upon Calvi by the king, the dukedom being named after one of the bridegroom's estates.

The most of the dresses of the bride were either in beige or deep cream, her favorite colors, which strikingly set off her dark hair and eyes.

of paupers just because the legislature deems it wise to assist them in maintaining a home in which to bring up children and to enable them to supervise the raising and education of their offspring.

"It is clear to us, in view of the expressed purpose of the law, that the legislature did not intend that there should be any interruption in the compensation to the mother for the benefit of her children due to the single fact that economic necessity or considerations of prudence impelled her to move from one county to another within the state."

"The temporary removal from one county to another," the court continued, "does not in any manner tend to defeat this purpose and is not enumerated as a condition justifying a discontinuance of the allowance. It would be a perversion of justice to read into the law any such condition or limitation."

Can Exercise Power
The court held that the county judge of Renville still was able to exercise supervisory powers in Ramsey county through agents provided by law.

The court's decision added that "the legal effect of a permanent removal, with intention to acquire permanent residence in another county, on the right to a continuance of a pension, is not decided."

MANDAN NEWS

ELECTRIC CO. WOULD ISSUE MORE STOCK

Mandan Electric Puts Petition Before Railroad Board

The Mandan Electric company has petitioned the state railroad commission for authority to issue $100,000 additional common stock at par value of $100 a share. As a result of the petition the commission has ordered that an appraisal be made of the plant by its engineers to determine its value. The commission is presently being in the nature of a dividend, the plant being built out of profits. The petition of the company says it was organized Dec. 15, 1909, and first operated in connection with Missouri Valley Milling company. Dividends were paid for 11 years, petition states, the profits being paid back into the company. The articles of incorporation of the company provided for $200,000 capital stock, of which but $100,000 has been issued, it is stated. The present plant was constructed in 1910, the petition further states, and the company placed a value on it of $175,552.38. With overhead costs, materials, working capital, etc., the value of the plant is actually in excess of $225,000, the petition states. It further says that in 1920, 1921 and 1922 dividends were paid averaging less than 7 per cent on a valuation of $200,000. The petition is signed by G. A. Renden, president, and J. H. Newton, secretary.

HONORS PAID WAR VETERAN

Services for Louis Kanell Held at Mandan

Veterans of the World War paid tribute to Louis Kanell, who died in Mandan as a result of wounds sustained during the war, at Mandan Saturday afternoon. Services were held in St. Joseph Catholic church. Pall-bearers and a firing squad, and an escort of about 30 men from the Mandan Legion post, accompanied the body and paid military honors. The Disabled Veterans of the World War chapter of Bismarck was represented at the service by a committee. Mr. Kanell having been a member of the post. The casket was draped in an American flag. Taps were sounded by a bugler. After the services the casket was carried through a double line of uniformed veterans of the war, and the procession then moved to the Northern Pacific depot. Anton Kanell, a brother, took the body to Minneapolis for interment in that city today. Louis Anest of Laurel, Mont., and many Bismarck people were among those from out of the city at the funeral. At previous meetings sponsored by the club it has been decided that in order to carry out this plan of bringing in new residents, the old residents must first be "sold" on their country; that the opportunities and resources of the Slope should be placed before the residents themselves; that a larger acreage of corn and alfalfa will have the effect of producing more prosperity on our farms than any other crops that can be grown at present; that our county public schools are an easy media through which the county agent can cooperate; that this meeting offers an opportunity to every citizen to aid in the development of the Slope country by his co-operation and presence.

ANNOUNCEMENT

of Interest to

MILLIONS of FAMILIES

"I will build a car for the multitude" Said Henry Ford in 1903 — Read how the fulfillment of that prophecy is now made possible through the

Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

For many years it has been Henry Ford's personal ambition to make the Ford the universal family car—to put it within the reach of the millions of people who have never been privileged to enjoy the benefits of motor car ownership. During the past fifteen years over 7,500,000 Ford Cars have been placed in the hands of retail customers—more than a million and a half of them within the past twelve months—and yet there are still millions of families who are hopefully looking forward to the day when they can own a Ford.

And now the way is open.

Under the terms of this plan you can select your Ford Car, set aside a small amount each week and you will be surprised how soon you will own it. In the meantime your money will be safely deposited to your credit in one of the local banks where it will draw interest.

Think it over. Five dollars will start an account. The whole family can participate in it—father, mother, brothers and sisters each doing a little.

Why not start today. Stop in and talk it over with The Copelin Motor Company Bismarck dealer. They will be glad to fully explain the details of the plan and help you get started toward the ownership of a Ford car.

THE GIRLS ALSO

When the community welfare work among boys launched by the Rotary club and made possible by city-wide cooperation and support has proved such a success what is more natural than that mothers of the city should ask: Why not give some attention to our girls?

That is what the Women's Community Council proposes to do. It wants to duplicate the success of the work among the boys. The women also proposed that women themselves shall direct the work, and for this purpose leaders for community work in all sections of the city are being sought by those in charge of the work. There surely ought not to be any lack of volunteers.

TWO STEPS COMPLETED

The Association of Commerce in the very short period of its existence already is nearing completion of two of the planks in the A. of C. platform suggested by the membership when the first big organization meeting was held. It has laid the foundation for two bands in Bismarck and for the formation of a central registration bureau for social service work. Both of these projects were suggested by the membership as important considerations of the club.

No more forward step in community development could be made than in laying a firm foundation for the development of permanent musical organizations for Bismarck, which has been done through intensive work on the part of A. of C. committees and the directors and executive officer. The central registration bureau should not only be profitable from the standpoint of community welfare, but should be economical in that duplication in charitable efforts will be avoided and the energy and gifts of local people to this end will go directly to the source. People of Bismarck doubtless will welcome the plan of a community chest, which is a part of the plan but which is to be provided in a drive carried out later.

The organization of real estate men, the reorganization of the Holstein-Friesian circuit and other activities of the new club assure the city that real accomplishment may be expected. It is also gratifying to know that officers of the club are particularly pleased over the cooperation shown by all citizens and any trace of divided sentiment in the consideration of purely community affairs seems to have passed.

THE BLOT STILL REMAINS

After two trials no one is convicted of participation in the brutal murders during the Herrin mine riots of many months ago. On the one hand the prosecutor and the Attorney-General declare that it is impossible to gain justice in Williamson county, Illinois, the seat of the trouble and where the organized miners who opposed the prosecution have demonstrated their numerical strength. On the other hand the defense declares the prosecutors sought alibis for their failure to convict, and that, unsuccessful in trying their cases in the court room, they sought to try them with more success in the newspapers.

The deaths occurred during riots when armed men clashed. The warfare properly was termed a battle. An industrial dispute threw men into such state that they warred on their fellows. They wore no masks and the murders occurred in broad daylight. It is, of course, impossible from such accounts of the evidence as the newspapers are able to carry, to sit in the capacity of a juror and judge the strength or weakness of the state's case. Nor can one from a distance estimate the influence of community prejudice or the strength of the defense in the particular cases on trial.

But the whole country does know that the Herrin battle constituted a grave blot upon that community and upon the state of Illinois. It looked to the proper authorities to find those responsible for the murders and to bring them before the bar of justice so that deserved punishment might be meted out. There will be no more cases tried, the prosecutor states. But the fact will remain and the entire country will lament the inability of the prosecutors to bring the wrong-doers to justice.

COLORADO JUVENILE LAWS

The Colorado legislature has passed four new laws which mark long steps toward the protection of childhood. All the bills were championed strongly by Judge Ben Lindsey, and one at least was directly inspired by him.

One of the laws is said to be the first of its kind ever passed in this country. It provides that counties of the state shall be responsible for the maintenance of indigent mothers six months before and six months after childbirth. Another provides that parents can be held responsible in juvenile court for the delinquency of their children. Another gives the juvenile court jurisdiction over adults committing crimes against children, and the last raises the age of delinquency from 16 to 18 years.

It is not necessary to go into these laws in detail. A brief examination shows that they look far into the causes for delinquency and misery among children, and provide for the control of those causes. The one providing for the care of indigent mothers was perhaps the most bitterly fought, and not without reason. Improperly administered, it would be open to sweeping abuses; but properly interpreted, it should be a corrective for many evils.

It is generally conceded that when children go wrong morally and physically it is not so much the fault of the children as of parents and the public who are responsible for their welfare and training. When laws are enacted which put the responsibility where it belongs and provide penalties for its evasion, provision for child welfare is on a sane basis.

There's a playhouse in New York where no charge is made for admission, but at the end of the performance a collection plate is passed around. It is said to make as much money as a church.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

A STOCK OWNING NATION

The American public, the rank and file of the American public, have an ownership interest in great corporations representing all divisions and subdivisions of American industry, railroads, steel companies, public utilities, motor car manufacturers, oil companies and everything else.

In the American Telephone & Telegraph company alone there are more than 201,000 stockholders, the great bulk of them small stockholders. The same thing is true of the Pennsylvania railroad, in which there are about 140,000. The United States Steel corporation has more than 96,000 stockholders, the Durant Motors and associated companies more than 80,000, the Southern Pacific railroad more than 57,000, the General Motors company about 50,000, the Atchafalpa railroad more than 41,000, the Union Pacific 39,000, Sinclair Oil 30,000 and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company more than 27,000.

That industrial group alone merely ten companies out of the country's many thousands, has more than three-quarters of a million stockholders—to be exact, 778,152. But that isn't a patch on the great mass of securities in which millions of American citizens have as clear an ownership, investment or participating interest as if their share of the securities were inside their own breast pockets or locked up in the strong box or other place where they keep their articles of value.

There are 27,000,000 savings accounts in all the banks of the country, and every last owner of a savings account has a property interest in the securities in which the bank's deposits are invested, that are back of the savings deposits.

There are 64,000,000 life insurance policies in the United States, and lack of the policies are the investments of the insurance companies, very largely in the securities of American corporations.

The American public, the rank and file of the American public, are very directly and very deeply interested in the securities of American industry and American business. They are in them as investors up to their necks. So when the Socialist and the Communist go gunning for the "vested interests" in the United States, they go gunning for the property of the American people. —New York Herald.

A HAPPY CHOICE

Governor Nestor's appointment of H. L. Reade as state fire marshal strikes a popular chord. It is a case of the man fitting the job and the job fitting the man. Mr. Reade "knows the ropes." He served a number of years as first assistant state fire marshal, and later was appointed chief of that department. He made good, but tell a victim of the fortunes of politics. Now the wheel of fortune has completed the circle, and he is back on the job. He will give a good account of himself, render faithful and efficient service, and justify the wisdom with prompted Governor Nestor to reinstate an excellent and faithful servant in a position which he is so well qualified to fill. —LaMoure Chronicle.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"What do you wish to see me about?" asked the Cut-Out Lady, when Nancy and Nick had seated themselves carefully on the floor of her cardboard house so as not to knock it over.

"The Green Shoes had been a wonderful help, for, of course, they had to make themselves little-wie to get into her front door. Nancy looked at Nick and Nick looked at Nancy, for, now that they had come to their journey's end, it was going to be hard to tell the poor Cut-Out Lady what they wanted.

"It's always hard to tell the cook her biscuits are heavy and to please bake better ones. It's hard to tell the butcher man his meat is tough and not to send any more like it.

So now the Twins found it hard to tell the Cut-Out Lady that she wasn't doing good mending and was sewing the Gingerbread Man's buttons on a crowd.

They both turned very red and hardly knew what to say. The Cut-Out Lady guessed that something was the matter at once. "Oh, you needn't be afraid," she said quickly. "Go right ahead and tell me anything you please. You see I have no feelings so I don't mind anything at all."

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "We thought you had feelings or you couldn't get cross when your cat comes home without any fur after the knock-knack dog has barked it off."

"I wouldn't mind it a bit," answered the Cut-Out Lady, "but as I was cut out of a book and there is printing on the other side of me it changes everything. The word 'hate' is printed right where my heart ought to be. So I get cross sometimes, but I never get offended."

That reminded Nick of the flat white peppermint heart he had pulled off the candy tree. It said "I love you" on it, in red letters.

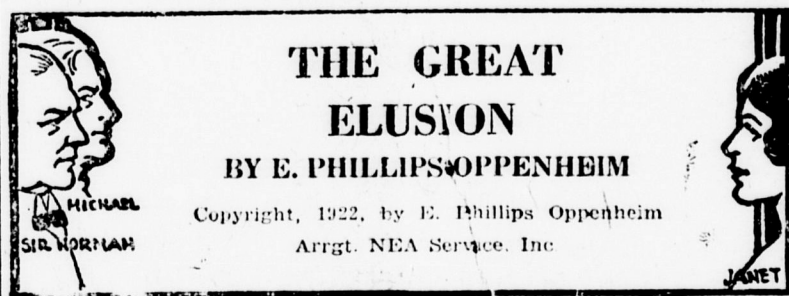

"We have brought you this," he said, digging it out of his pocket. "If you like, we'll paste it on you."

"Please do," begged the Cut-Out Lady. "But tell me the bad news first so I won't care so much."

LOOKS LIKE FERTILE FIELD

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, one of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Greyes falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage. Michael, disguised himself and attends the wedding reception. Having stolen a pearl necklace, the gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayers returns them indirectly to Janet.

Michael, buoyed from the divorced wife of a politician a bundle of manuscripts, evidence against the lady's former husband and his confederate, the well-known Lord Kindersley, Sayers refuses ten thousand pounds from the newspapers for the evidence for publication because he is in love with Beatrice Kindersley.

It was toward the close of a dinner party at Kindersley's Court, in Devonshire, where Janet and I were spending a fortnight, that our host suddenly directed the conversation to me.

"One has heard a great deal of your successes, Greyes, especially during your last few years at Scotland Yard. What do you count your greatest failure?"

"My inability to bring to justice the greatest criminal in Europe," I replied after a moment's hesitation. "I had him on my book for three years, but when I retired, he was still very much at large."

"What is his name?" Lord Kindersley asked with some interest.

"A name, with him, I suspect, is an affair of the moment. I have known him under a dozen different pseudonyms, but his real name is, I believe, Michael. He did me the honor to attend my wedding reception as Colonel Escombe."

I happened to meet the glance of Beatrice Kindersley as I looked across the table.

"But tell us about this man Michael," Lord Kindersley intervened.

"I remember, seven or eight years ago, hearing something about the duel between you fellows at Scotland Yard and a wonderfully bad criminal gang. Where is the fellow now?"

"I shook my head. "I shouldn't have the faintest idea where to look for him. If he comes into the limelight again, my friend Rimmington at Scotland Yard will certainly send for me."

"And you would join in the hunt?" our host persisted.

"You would do nothing of the sort," Janet intervened, looking across at me. "That is a promise."

I smiled back at her reassuringly. Prosperity and peace of mind had agreed with Janet. The dignity of widowhood sat well upon her. Her complexion seemed to have grown more creamy, her beautiful eyes softer, her carriage always graceful, more assured. There was no woman in the county more admired than she—certainly no one less spoiled. I sometimes think that if she had had her way, she would never have wandered at all outside our little domain.

"There is just the one possibility," I remarked, "that I might not be able to evade the challenge. If I do not go after Michael, he may come after me."

It was precisely at this moment that the amazing event happened. We were a party of twelve at dinner, seated at a round table in the center of the large banquet hall of Kindersley Court. The room was rather dimly lighted, except for the heavily shaded table lamps. The two footmen had left the room, presumably to fetch the coffee, and the butler standing behind Lord Kindersley's chair was the only servant in attendance. Suddenly every light in the place went out, and we were plunged into the most complete darkness. "Never knew such a thing to happen before," our host declared in an annoyed tone. "Somebody must have been tinkering with the power-house. Fetch some candles, Searle."

"The butler turned to grope his way toward the door, but he was not allowed to reach it. From various parts of the shadowy space, on every side of us, little pin-points of fire blazed out and steadily approached, without sound or movement. One of them came to a standstill immediately behind Lord Kindersley's chair. Wielded by some unseen hand, the dazzling brilliancy of a high-powered electric torch was flashed round upon twelve amazed faces. Then a strong voice broke the spellbound silence, a voice still and cold and perfectly modulated.

"Ladies and gentlemen," the intruder said, "there is no need for any particular alarm. This is, to use a slang phrase, a 'holdup.' We have automatic pistols, and I trust that you will realize the absurdity of resistance."

"God bless my soul!" Lord Kindersley exclaimed. "Where are all my servants? How the devil did you get in?"

"It is scarcely policy to let you into the secret of our methods," the same cold voice continued; "but I have no objection to telling you that your servants are locked up and guarded in the servants' hall very much as you are, that your telephone wires are cut, your electric light supply is in our hands, and the lodge-gates guarded. You ladies will kindly place all the jewelry you are wearing, upon the table in front of you. There must be no delay, please, or any attempt at concealment."

"What shall I do?" the woman next to me whispered hoarsely. "I am wearing my emeralds—Jack informed me not to—they are worth 20,000 pounds."

"Will it be Sir Norman Greyes who struts across the stage in the second act?" he asked mockingly.

"Then I knew who was there, and I remembered that Michael had sworn to take my life when and how the opportunity offered. I was an easy mark for him, sitting there, but somehow the idea of assassination never had any terrors for me."

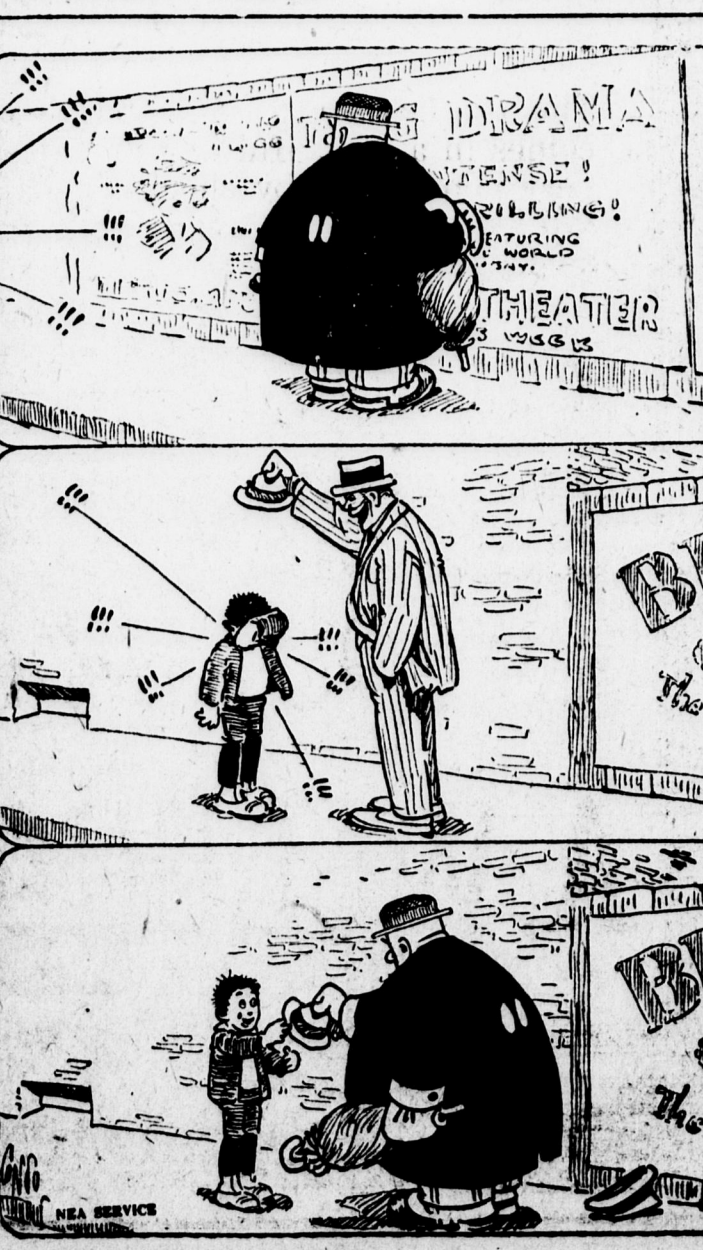

"I may occupy the stage for a little time," I answered, feeling for my mine through the darkness. "But after all, it will be the third act that counts. Which will you choose, conder, Michael—the gallows at Wandsworth Gaol or the electric chair at Sing Sing?"

"This, of course, was sheer bravado, a touch of melodrama of which I repented as soon as I had indulged in it. I heard the click of a weapon, and in the steady glare of that small circle of light I saw the flash upon its barrel as it drew level with my head. There was a silence as poignant as it was hysterical; then a cry from Janet rang through the room.

"A similar voice, I fancy," Michael said coldly as he lowered his weapon. "You do well to intervene, dear lady. Some day or other, I think that your husband will kill me or I him; but unless he hunts me with a posse of policemen, it will be when we are both armed and the odds are even."

EVERETT TRUE

BY CONDO

"May I speak, please?" Beatrice Kindersley asked.

"I have put my rings and bracelets upon the table. I am wearing around my neck a miniature set with brilliants. It is not really very valuable, but it was left me by a relative. May I keep it?"

The light flashed for a moment upon the pendant which she seemed to be holding forward for examination, flashed on the little heap of her jewelry upon the table.

"Pray keep your miniature," the voice conceded. "Do me the further honor, if you will, of replacing your jewelry upon your fingers and wrists. We are not here to rob children of their baubles."

BEATRICE'S laugh was a most amazing thing. It was perfectly natural and full of amused enjoyment.

"I don't like the reflection upon my jewelry," she complained. "However, since you are so generous, I will accept your offer."

"Look here," said Kindersley, broke out, finding a certain courage from his niece's complete composure, "is this a practical joke?"

"You will discover if it is a practical joke or not, if you attempt to leave your seat!" was the instant reply.

"These fellows can't think they're going to get away with a thing like this," muttered Lord Harroden, the lord lieutenant of the county, from the other end of the table.

"Your Lordship's mistake," was the confident reply from the unseen figure who was directing the proceedings. "I will pay you five to one in hundreds that we do, payment to be made through the personal column of the Times a thirty days' time."

"Gad, he's a cool hand!" chuckled Antruther, the master of hounds, who was seated next but one to me. "I wish I could see his face for a moment."

"It would be your last if you did," he was promptly told.

"What if I strike a match?" a young man who was seated next to Kindersley inquired.

I should put it out with one bullet and you with the next," Michael assured him grimly. "Now, ladies and gentlemen," he went on, after a brief pause, "our business seems to be over. Anyone who leaves his seat before we reach the door, will be shot. As soon as we get there, we shall lock you in and then you can commence your pay-off of the fun as soon as you like."

No one attempted a single word of reply. The little points of fire were kept turned upon us while our visitors slowly retreated. We heard the door unlocked, heard it slammed, heard it locked again the signal for our emancipation. Very nearly simultaneously we all started to our feet.

THE GIRLS ALSO

When the community welfare work among boys launched by the Rotary club and made possible by city-wide cooperation and support has proved such a success what is more natural than that mothers of the city should ask: Why not give some attention to our girls?

That is what the Women's Community Council proposes to do. It wants to duplicate the success of the work among the boys. The women also proposed that women themselves shall direct the work, and for this purpose leaders for community work in all sections of the city are being sought by those in charge of the work. There surely ought not to be any lack of volunteers.

TWO STEPS COMPLETED

The Association of Commerce in the very short period of its existence already is nearing completion of two of the planks in the A. of C. platform suggested by the membership when the first big organization meeting was held. It has laid the foundation for two bands in Bismarck and for the formation of a central registration bureau for social service work. Both of these projects were suggested by the membership as important considerations of the club.

No more forward step in community development could be made than in laying a firm foundation for the development of permanent musical organizations for Bismarck, which has been done through intensive work on the part of A. of C. committees and the directors and executive officer. The central registration bureau should not only be profitable from the standpoint of community welfare, but should be economical in that duplication in charitable efforts will be avoided and the energy and gifts of local people to this end will go directly to the source. People of Bismarck doubtless will welcome the plan of a community chest, which is a part of the plan but which is to be provided in a drive carried out later.

The organization of real estate men, the reorganization of the Holstein-Friesian circuit and other activities of the new club assure the city that real accomplishment may be expected. It is also gratifying to know that officers of the club are particularly pleased over the cooperation shown by all citizens and any trace of divided sentiment in the consideration of purely community affairs seems to have passed.

THE BLOT STILL REMAINS

After two trials no one is convicted of participation in the brutal murders during the Herrin mine riots of many months ago. On the one hand the prosecutor and the Attorney-General declare that it is impossible to gain justice in Williamson county, Illinois, the seat of the trouble and where the organized miners who opposed the prosecution have demonstrated their numerical strength. On the other hand the defense declares the prosecutors sought alibis for their failure to convict, and that, unsuccessful in trying their cases in the court room, they sought to try them with more success in the newspapers.

The deaths occurred during riots when armed men clashed. The warfare properly was termed a battle. An industrial dispute threw men into such state that they warred on their fellows. They wore no masks and the murders occurred in broad daylight. It is, of course, impossible from such accounts of the evidence as the newspapers are able to carry, to sit in the capacity of a juror and judge the strength or weakness of the state's case. Nor can one from a distance estimate the influence of community prejudice or the strength of the defense in the particular cases on trial.

But the whole country does know that the Herrin battle constituted a grave blot upon that community and upon the state of Illinois. It looked to the proper authorities to find those responsible for the murders and to bring them before the bar of justice so that deserved punishment might be meted out. There will be no more cases tried, the prosecutor states. But the fact will remain and the entire country will lament the inability of the prosecutors to bring the wrong-doers to justice.

COLORADO JUVENILE LAWS

The Colorado legislature has passed four new laws which mark long steps toward the protection of childhood. All the bills were championed strongly by Judge Ben Lindsey, and one at least was directly inspired by him.

One of the laws is said to be the first of its kind ever passed in this country. It provides that counties of the state shall be responsible for the maintenance of indigent mothers six months before and six months after childbirth. Another provides that parents can be held responsible in juvenile court for the delinquency of their children. Another gives the juvenile court jurisdiction over adults committing crimes against children, and the last raises the age of delinquency from 16 to 18 years.

It is not necessary to go into these laws in detail. A brief examination shows that they look far into the causes for delinquency and misery among children, and provide for the control of those causes. The one providing for the care of indigent mothers was perhaps the most bitterly fought, and not without reason. Improperly administered, it would be open to sweeping abuses; but properly interpreted, it should be a corrective for many evils.

It is generally conceded that when children go wrong morally and physically it is not so much the fault of the children as of parents and the public who are responsible for their welfare and training. When laws are enacted which put the responsibility where it belongs and provide penalties for its evasion, provision for child welfare is on a sane basis.

There's a playhouse in New York where no charge is made for admission, but at the end of the performance a collection plate is passed around. It is said to make as much money as a church.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

A STOCK OWNING NATION

The American public, the rank and file of the American public, have an ownership interest in great corporations representing all the economic and industrial life of the American people. American industry, steel, automobiles, public utilities, motor car manufacturers, oil companies and everything else.

In the American Telephone & Telegraph company alone there are more than 291,000 stockholders, the great bulk of them small stockholders. The same thing is true of the Pennsylvania railroad, in which there are about 140,000. The United States Steel corporation has more than 96,000 stockholders, the Durant Motors and associated companies more than 89,000, the Southern Pacific railroad more than 57,000, the General Motors company about 50,000, the Atchafalaya railroad more than 41,000, the Union Pacific 39,000, Sinclair Oil 36,000 and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company more than 27,000.

That industrial group alone merely ten companies out of the country's many thousands, has more than three-quarters of a million stockholders—to be exact 778,152. But that isn't a put-up job. The great mass of securities, in which millions of American citizens have as clear an ownership interest as if their share of the securities were inside their own breast pockets or locked up in the strong box or other place where they keep their articles of value.

There are 27,000,000 savings accounts in all the banks of the country and every last one of them is a savings account having a property interest in the securities in which the bank's deposits are invested—the securities, government and private, that are back of the savings deposits.

There are 64,000,000 life insurance policies in the United States, and back of the policies are the investments of the insurance companies, very largely in the securities of American corporations.

The American public, the rank and file of the American public are very directly and very deeply interested in the securities of American industry and American business. They are in them as investors torn up to their necks. So when the Socialist and the Communist go running for the "good with interest" in the United States, they are running for the property of the American people. New York Herald.

A HAPPY CHOICE

Governor Nestor's appointment of H. L. Reade as state fire marshal strikes a popular chord. It is a case of the man fitting the job and the job fitting the man. Mr. Reade knows the fire business. He served a number of years as first assistant state fire marshal, and later was appointed chief of that department. He made good, but fell a victim to the fortunes of politics. Now the wheel of fortune has completed the circle, and he is back on the job. He will give a good account of himself, render faithful and efficient service, and justify the wisdom with which Governor Nestor reinstated an excellent and faithful servant in a position which he is so well qualified to fill. ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"What do you wish to see me about?" asked the Cut-Out Lady, when Nancy and Nick had seated themselves carefully on the floor of her cardboard house so as not to knock it over.

"We're the Green Shirts, had been a wonderful help, for, of course, they had to make themselves little-known to get into her front door."

Nancy looked at Nick and Nick looked at Nancy, for now that they had come to their journey's end, it was going to be hard to tell the poor Cut-Out Lady what they wanted.

"It's always hard to tell the cut-out lady, but it's hard to tell the butcher man his meat is tough and not to send any more like it."

So now the Twins found it hard to tell the Cut-Out Lady that she wasn't doing good mending and was sewing the Gingerbread Man's buttons on crooked.

They both turned very red and hardly knew what to hear. The Cut-Out Lady guessed that something was the matter at once. "Oh, you needn't be afraid," she said quickly. "Go right ahead and tell me anything you please. You see I have no feelings so I don't mind anything at all."

"Oh!" cried Nancy. "We thought you had feelings or you wouldn't get cross when your cut-outs come home without any fur after the knickerbocker has barked it off."

"I wouldn't mind it a bit," answered the Cut-Out Lady, "but I was cut out of a book and there is printing on the other side of me it changes everything. The word 'hate' is printed right where my heart ought to be. So I get cross sometimes, but I never get offended."

That reminded Nick of the fat white peppermint heart he had bought for her the candy tree. It said "I love you" on it, in red letters.

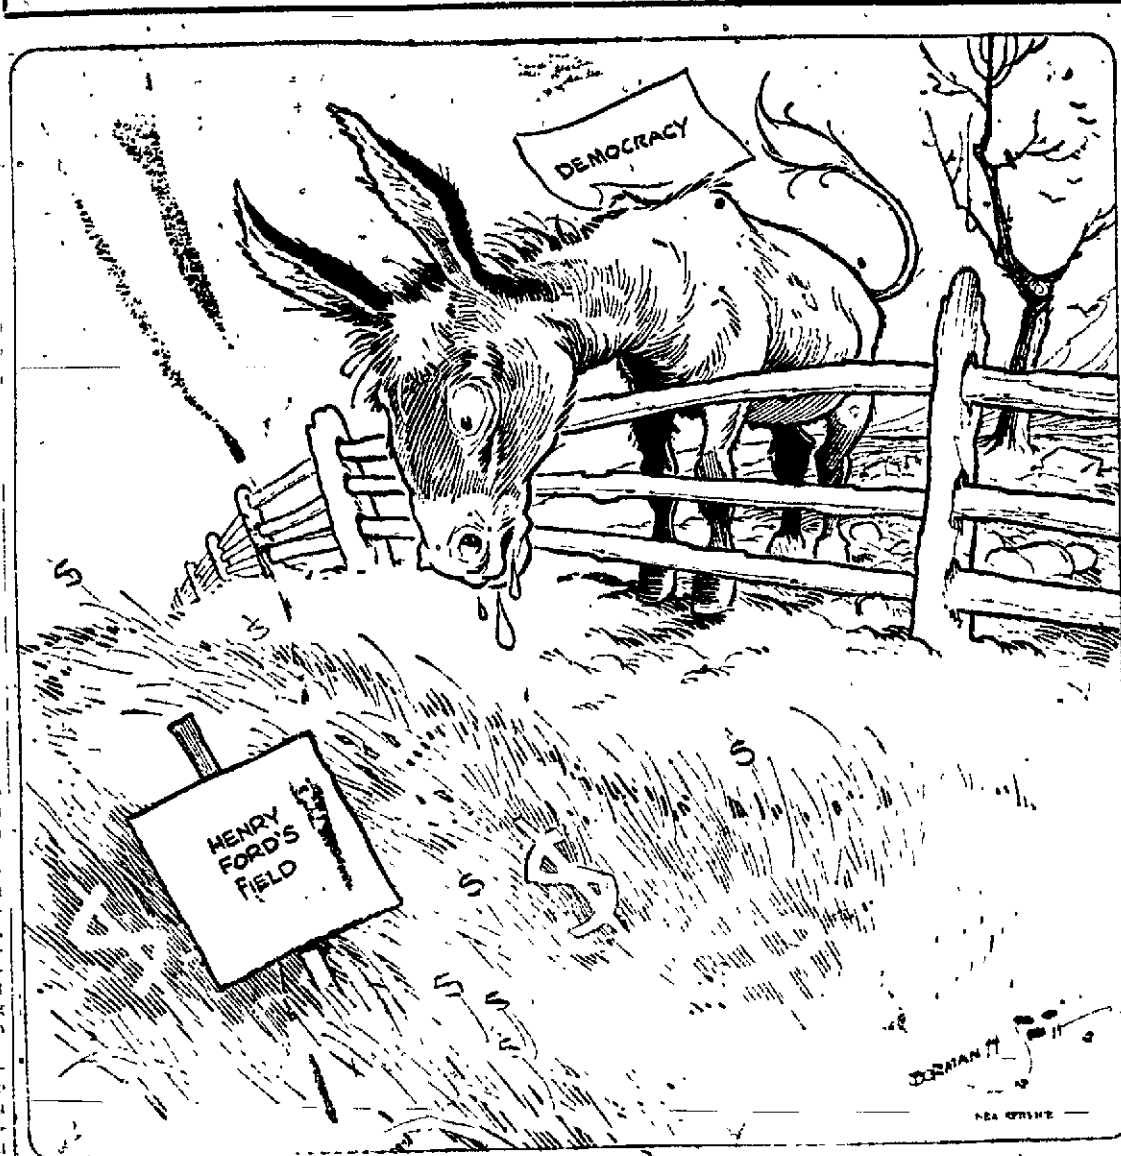

"We have brought you this," he said, digging it out of his pocket. "If you like, we'll paste it on you."

"Please do," begged the Cut-Out Lady. "But tell me the bad news first so I won't care so much."

LOOKS LIKE FERTILE FIELD

THE GREAT ELUSION
BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrgt. NEA Service Inc.

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYER, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, one of Scotland Yard, when Sayer's beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by shooting dead an officer sent to arrest him. Greyes falls in love with Janet and proposes marriage. Michael disguises himself and attends the wedding reception. Having stolen a pearl necklace, the gift of Sir Norman to his bride, Sayer returns them indirectly to Janet.

Michael buys from the divorced wife of a politician a bundle of manuscript, evidence against the lady's former husband and his confederates, the well-known Lord Kindersley. Sayer refused ten thousand pounds from the newspapers for the evidence for publication because he is in love with Beatrice Kindersley.

It was toward the close of a dinner party at Kindersley Court, in Devonshire, where Janet and I were spending a fortnight, that our host suddenly directed the conversation to me.

"One has heard a great deal of your successes, Greyes, especially during your last few years at Scotland Yard. What do you count your greatest failure?"

"My inability to bring to justice the greatest criminal in Europe," I replied after a moment's hesitation. "I had him on my book for three years, but when I retired, he was still very much at large."

"What is his name?" Lord Kindersley asked with some interest.

"A name, with him, I suspect, is an affair of the moment. I have known him under a dozen different pseudonyms; but his real name is, I believe, Michael. He did me the honor to attend my wedding reception as Colonel Escombe."

I happened to meet the glance of Beatrice Kindersley as I looked across the table.

"But tell us about this man Michael," Lord Kindersley intervened. "I remember, seven or eight years ago, hearing something about the duel between you fellows at Scotland Yard and a wonderfully led criminal gang. Where is the fellow now?"

"I shook my head. "I shouldn't have the faintest idea where to look for him. If he comes into the limelight again, my friend Rimmington at Scotland Yard will certainly send for me."

"And you would join in the hunt?" our host persisted.

"You would do nothing of the sort," Janet intervened, looking across at me. "That is a promise."

I smiled back at her reassuringly. Prosperity and peace of mind had agreed with Janet. The dignity of widowhood sat well upon her. Her complexion seemed to have grown more creamy, her beautiful eyes softer, her carriage always gracefully, more assured. There was an air of confidence in her, one less than I. Sometimes I think that if she had had her way, she would never have wandered at all outside our little domain.

"There is just the one possibility," I remarked, "that I might not be able to evade the challenge. If I do not go after Michael, he may come after me."

It was precisely at this moment that the amazing event happened. We were a party of twelve at dinner, seated at a round table in the center of the large banquet hall of Kindersley Court. The room was rather dimly lighted, except for the heavily shaded table lamps. The two footmen had left the room, presumably to fetch the coffee, and the butler standing behind Lord Kindersley's chair was the only servant in attendance. Suddenly every light in the place went out, and we were light supply is in our hands, and the lodge-gates guarded. You ladies will kindly place all the jewelry you are wearing upon the table in front of you. There must be no delay, please, or any attempt at concealment."

"What shall I do?" the woman next to me whispered hoarsely. "I am wearing my emeralds—Jack implored me not to—they are worth 20,000 pounds."

"You will have to do as the others are doing," I told her. "The first act of this little drama must be played out according to orders."

She unclasped the necklace with trembling fingers, and the unseen figure behind Lord Kindersley's chair spoke again.

"Call it be Sir Norman Greyes who trusts across the stage in the second act," he asked mockingly.

Then I knew who was there, and I remembered that Michael had sworn to take my life when and how the opportunity offered. I was an easy mark for him, sitting there, but somehow I had no terrors for me.

"I may occupy the stage for a little time," I answered, feeling for my way through the darkness. "But after all, it will be the third act that counts. Which will you choose, I wonder, Michael—the gallows or the electric chair at Sing Sing?"

"This, of course, was sheer bravado, a touch of melodrama of which I repented as soon as I had indulged in it. I heard the click of a weapon, and in the steady glare of that small circle of light I saw the flash upon it, barrel as it drew level with my head. There was a silence as poignant as it was hysterical; then a cry from Janet rang through the room.

"A similar voice, I fancy," Michael said, and he lowered his voice. "You do well to intervene, dear Lady. Some day or other, I think that your husband will kill me or I him; but unless he hunt me with a posse of policemen, it will be when we are both armed and the odds are even."

"God bless my soul!" Lord Kindersley exclaimed. "Where are all my servants? How the devil did you get in?"

"It is a purely policy to let you into the secret of our methods," the same cold voice continued; "but I have no objection to telling you that we came in through the front door, that your servants are locked up and guarded in the servants' hall very much as you are, that your telephone wires are cut, your electric

"May I speak, please?" Beatrice Kindersley asked. "I have put my rings and bracelets upon the table. I am wearing around my neck a miniature set with brilliants. It is not really very valuable, but it was left me by a relative. May I keep it?"

The light flashed for a moment upon the pendant which she seemed to be holding forward for examination, flashed on the little heap of her jewelry upon the table.

"Pray keep your miniature," the voice conceded. "Do me the further honor, if you will, of replacing your jewelry upon your fingers and wrists. We are not here to rob children of their bubble."

BEATRICE'S laugh was a most amazing thing. It was perfectly natural and full of amused enjoyment.

"I don't like the reflection upon my jewelry," she complained. "However, since you are so generous, I will accept your offer."

"Look here," Lord Kindersley broke out, finding a certain courage from his niece's complete composure, "is this a practical joke?"

"You will discover if it is a practical joke or not, if you attempt to leave your seat!" was the instant reply.

"These fellows can't think they're going to get away with a thing like this," muttered Lord Harroden, the lord lieutenant of the county, from the other end of the table.

"Your Lordship is mistaken," was the confident reply from the unseen figure who was directing the proceedings. "I will lay you five to one in hundreds that we do, payment to be made through the personal agent of the Times at thirty days' time."

"God, he's a cool hand!" chuckled Antruther, the master of hounds, who was seated next but one to me. "I wish I could see his face for a moment."

"It would be your last if you did," he was promptly told.

"What if I strike a match?" a young man who was seated next to Kindersley inquired.

I should put it out with one bullet and you with the next," Michael said to him grimly. "Now, ladies, a brief pause. Our business seems to be over. Anyone who leaves his seat before we reach the door, will be shot. As soon as we get there, we shall look you in, and then you can commence your part of the fun as soon as you like."

No one attempted a single word of reply. The little points of fire were kept turned upon us while our visitors slowly retreated. We heard the door unlocked, heard it slammed, heard it locked again the signal for our emancipation. Very nearly simultaneously we all started to our feet.

WRESTLERS WORKING OUT FOR BIG BOUT

Orderman to Come Here Day
Ahead of Time; Jensen,
Rodgers Working

Henry Orderman, former champion wrestler of American and one of the best ever in the game, is expected to arrive in Bismarck Wednesday for final workouts in preparation for the match Thursday night at the Bismarck auditorium with Stanley Rodgers, Bismarck light-heavyweight wrestler.

Rodgers, realizing he has the toughest match of the year and wanting to keep his record clear, is working out every day from 5 to 6 p. m. with Thor Jensen in the Bismarck gymnasium, in the basement of the City National Bank building. Fans are invited to see them in their workout.

O. W. Roberts is seeking three wrestlers for Jensen to take on under his guarantee to throw three of them in 30 minutes or forfeit $25. Jensen, who is one of the classiest middleweights in the game, probably will be matched with the American champion in the near future.

Joe Mong is also working out each day at the gymnasium in preparation for his bout, which is scheduled to go six rounds on Thursday night.

The athletic show is for the benefit of the Bismarck baseball club, and a big crowd is expected. It may be the last big wrestling and boxing program here before fall.

LOS ANGELES GETS OLYMPIC

Will Hold Games There in 1932, First in U. S.

New York, April 9.—Award of the Olympic games of 1932 to Los Angeles by the International Olympic Committee today in Rome marks the final chapter of a vigorous campaign by American athletic authorities, particularly those in California, to bring the international meet to this country. Completing a great new stadium and offering attractive inducements Los Angeles interests made a bid for the 1921 games about a year ago when it appeared Paris might relinquish its award because of difficulty in obtaining needed government appropriations. Shortly afterwards, however, France smoothed out its difficulty and France then sought the games for 1928. The international committee last June decided to accept the bid of Amsterdam, Holland, for 1928.

KANSAS CITY TEAM VICTOR IN TOURNAMENT

Chicago, April 9.—Kansas City high, champions of Kansas, won the national invitation interscholastic basketball tournament of the University of Chicago here Saturday night, defeating Rockford, Ill., in the finals, 43 to 21.

The Kansas City team won the game through their greater speed and their extremely fast running attack, sweeping the Rockford defense aside before it had a chance to form. Rockford tried to stem the tide in the second half but despite their heavier quintet, were unable to forge to the front.

Rockford did not have the lead throughout the game.

Kansas City eliminated Fargo, N. D., in its first game in the tournament.

THREE RECRUIT PLAYERS ARE CERTAIN TO BE RETAINED BY NEW YORK YANKEES

Of the score of youngsters taken south by the New York Yankees, not over a half dozen will be retained. Three recruits certain to be held for further inspection are Outfielders Tucker and Haines and Catcher Bengough.

The cases of Tucker and Haines are unusual. Haines is a great fielder, very fast and a wonderful runner, but rather shy with the stick. Tucker, a left-handed batsman, can sure hit them, but has much to learn as a fielder.

If Haines could hit like Tucker and Tucker could field like Haines both would win regular berths in the outfield.

Bengough, with Buffalo last year, will be retained as third string catcher. He has great promise.

UNIFORM LAWS ADOPTED GIVE N. D. GOOD RANK

Among the First States in Putting Uniform Laws on
Statute Books

LEAD THIS SESSION

North Dakota stands in the front rank of states in the matter of enactment of uniform laws. Chief Justice H. A. Bronson of the supreme court, said today. North Dakota was the first to complete enactment of the three uniform laws recommended by the American Bar association in its last convention, he added. These are the uniform aviation act, uniform act on declaratory judgments and uniform act on the status of illegitimate children, the latter being proposed by the Children's Code Commission.

North Dakota now has eight uniform acts recommended for adoption in all states by the American Bar association, Justice Bronson said. The matter of proposing new uniform acts will be discussed at a meeting of state commissioners on uniform laws previous to the American Bar association convention in Minneapolis next summer. One matter engrossing attention is the proposal for uniform laws governing interstate comity, such as extradition proceedings, Justice Bronson said.

The uniform laws which North Dakota has, in addition to the three enacted this year, Justice Bronson said, are uniform act on acknowledgements, warehouse receipts act, negotiable instrument act, desertion and non-support acts and uniform sales act.

The American Bar association launched a movement 35 years ago to have all states adopt uniform acts to promote trade and commerce, Justice Bronson said. A total of 33 uniform acts have been proposed. North Dakota has practically all of such acts, either in exact form as eight are, or in modified form, he said. The North Dakota committee charged with seeking enactment of uniform acts in this state is composed of Justice Bronson, former Judge Grace and Edward F. Flinn of Devils Lake.

Why One Advertising Appropriation was Increased

TWO partners were debating their advertising policy — planning the campaign for the next six months.

Theirs is a retail store which spent in one year $12,000 on its advertising which was 5% of their yearly volume, a fair expenditure in their line of business.

In growth of sales they could easily point out the homecoming of the $12,000 with a fair and reasonable profit in its train. For these two partners that expenditure was a profitable short-term investment.

One of the partners spoke up:

"John," he said, "we have a cash profit in the bank from that $12,000, but we have a greater intangible profit by far—it is piled up for us in the minds of every man and woman in the city.

"It is reflected in the attitude of our bankers.

"It is present in the minds of the manufacturers who sell us.

"It is working on the minds and purses of every one of our customers."

"Why," he continued, "this business, because of the advertising we have done, is worth $12,000 more than it was before we began."

The two partners increased their appropriation, modestly, it is true. That was five years ago. Today, for it is in a large city, their appropriation is eight times their original amount. Their standing, with bankers, manufacturers and customers is A-1. Their business has grown and grown in a healthy way. And still as one of them put it—

"In the last five years advertising has made money for us. Every cent we've spent has come back to us, and brought another with it. But, our real profit—our big profit from that advertising is banked in the minds of the people. Ours is the best known business of its kind in town. And that is worth a lot of money to us."

WRESTLERS WORKING OUT FOR BIG BOUT

Ordeman to Come Here Day
Ahead of Time; Jensen,
Rodgers Working

Frederick Ordeman, former champion wrestler of American and one of the best ever in the game, is expected to arrive in Bismarck Wednesday for final workouts in preparation for the match Thursday night at the Bismarck auditorium with Stanley Rodgers, Bismarck light-heavyweight wrestler.

Rodgers, realizing he has the toughest match of the year and wanting to keep his record clear, is working out every day from 5 to 6 p. m. with Thor Jensen in the Bismarck gymnasium, in the basement of the City National Bank building. Fans are invited to see them in their workouts.

O. W. Roberts is seeking three wrestlers for Jensen to take on under his guarantee to throw three of them in 20 minutes or forfeit $25. Jensen, who is one of the classiest middleweights in the game, probably will be matched with the American champion in the near future.

Joe Mong is also working out each day at the gymnasium in preparation for his bout, which is scheduled to go six rounds on Thursday night.

The athletic show is for the benefit of the Bismarck baseball club, and a big crowd is expected. It may be the last big wrestling and boxing program here before fall.

LOS ANGELES GETS OLYMPIC

Will Hold Games There in
1932. First in U. S.

New York, April 9.—Award of the Olympic games of 1932 to Los Angeles by the International Olympic Committee today in Rome marks the final chapter of a vigorous campaign by American athletic authorities, particularly those in California, to bring the international meet to this country. Completing a great new stadium and offering a lucrative inducement to Los Angeles interests made a bid for the 1932 games about a year ago when it appeared Paris might relinquish its award because of difficulty in obtaining needed government appropriations. Shortly afterwards, however, France smoothed out its difficulty and France then sought the games for 1928. The international committee last June decided to accept the bid of Amsterdam, Holland, for 1928.

KANSAS CITY TEAM VICTOR IN TOURNAMENT

Chicago, April 9.—Kansas City high, champions of Kansas, won the national invitation interscholastic basketball tournament of the University of Chicago here Saturday night, defeating Rockford, Ill., in the finals, 42 to 21.

The Kansas City team won the game through their greater speed and their extremely fast running attack, sweeping the Rockford defense aside before it had a chance to form. Rockford tried to stem the tide in the second half but despite their heavier quintet, were unable to forge to the front.

Rockford did not have the lead throughout the game.

Kansas City eliminated Fargo, N. D., in its first game in the tournament.

UNIFORM LAWS ADOPTED GIVE N. D. GOOD RANK

Among the First States in Putting Uniform Laws on
Statute Books

LEAD THIS SESSION

North Dakota stands in the front rank of states in the matter of enactment of uniform laws, Chief Justice H. A. Bronson of the supreme court, said today. North Dakota was the first to complete enactment of the three uniform laws recommended by the American Bar association in its last convention, he added. These are the uniform aviation act, uniform act on declaratory judgments and uniform act on the status of illegitimate children, the latter being proposed by the Children's Code Commission.

North Dakota now has eight uniform acts recommended for adoption in all states by the American Bar association, Justice Bronson said. The matter of proposing new uniform acts will be discussed at a meeting of state commissioners on uniform laws previous to the American Bar association convention in Minneapolis next summer. One matter engrossing attention is the proposed uniform laws governing interstate comity, such as extradition proceedings, Justice Bronson said. The uniform laws which North Dakota has, in addition to the three enacted this year, Justice Bronson said, are uniform act on acknowledgments, warehouse receipts act, negotiable instrument act, desertion and non-support acts and uniform sales act.

The American Bar association launched a movement 35 years ago to have all states adopt uniform acts to promote trade and commerce, Justice Bronson said. A total of 33 uniform acts have been proposed. North Dakota has practically all of such acts, either in exact form as right are, or in modified form, he said. The North Dakota committee charged with seeking enactment of uniform acts in this state is composed of Justice Bronson, former Judge Grace and Edward F. Flinn of Devils Lake.

WHEN SKILL BEAT STRENGTH

This ringside picture of the St. Patrick's Day fight in Dublin between Siki, Senegalese fighter, and McTigue, Irishman, for the light-heavyweight championship of the world and the heavyweight championship of Europe, shows the difference in tactics between the two fighters which brought about McTigue's victory on points after the full 20 rounds had been fought. The Irishman, avoiding with skill the fierce dashes of his opponent, scored continuously by clever hits with his left. This shows McTigue dodging a ponderous blow from Siki's left.

Why One Advertising Appropriation was Increased

TWO partners were debating their advertising policy — planning the campaign for the next six months.

Theirs is a retail store which spent in one year $12,000 on its advertising which was 5% of their yearly volume, a fair expenditure in their line of business.

In growth of sales they could easily point out the homecoming of the $12,000 with a fair and reasonable profit in its train. For these two partners that expenditure was a profitable short-term investment.

One of the partners spoke up:

"John," he said, "we have a cash profit in the bank from that $12,000, but we have a greater intangible profit by far—it is piled up for us in the minds of every man and woman in the city.

"It is reflected in the attitude of our bankers.

"It is present in the minds of the manufacturers who sell us.

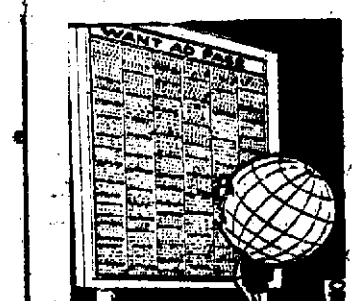

"It is working on the minds and purses of every one of our customers."

"Why," he continued, "this business, because of the advertising we have done, is worth $12,000 more than it was before we began."

The two partners increased their appropriation, modestly, it is true. That was five years ago. Today, for it is in a large city, their appropriation is eight times their original amount. Their standing, with bankers, manufacturers and customers is A-1. Their business has grown and grown in a healthy way. And still as one of them put it—

"In the last five years advertising has made money for us. Every cent we've spent has come back to us, and brought another with it. But, our real profit—our big profit from that advertising is banked in the minds of the people. Ours is the best known business of its kind in town. And that is worth a lot of money to us."

THE COLLAPSING TRIANGLE

Dorothy King, Broadway butterfly (right), was murdered, police believe, because she refused to participate in a plan to blackmail her admirer, John Kearsley Mitchell, Philadelphia millionaire. Almost As Active As School-girl Since Taking Tanlac. Declares Minneapolis Woman.

"Since taking Tanlac, I am as happy and almost as active as when I was a schoolgirl, despite my seventy years," said Mrs. Oey Conklin, a highly respected resident of 20 Royalston Ave., N., Minneapolis, Minn., recently.

"Why, I even went to the polls and stood in line waiting to cast my vote and didn't feel tired. That shows how active I am."

"But before taking Tanlac, there were times when I was too weak and nervous to even do any sewing. Indigestion bothered me terribly, my back and head ached badly and I was too nervous to sleep right."

"At first, I didn't take much stock in Tanlac but now I'm convinced there is nothing like it. I don't know what it is to have indigestion, headaches or nervousness, and I help with the housework and do lots of other tasks without feeling tired. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

THE ELTINGE.

"The Little Church Around the Corner," the popular stage play has been made into a motion picture and it will shown at the Eltinge theater Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

An exceptionally large cast of well-known screen players was engaged to interpret the varied roles in this romantic melodrama, the underlying theme of which is that there is a little church in every person's heart. It was produced with exacting care, and the film is said to contain a thrilling series of incidents resulting in a startling climax.

It is the story of Leila Morton, the lovely daughter of a millionaire mine owner, and her sweetheart, David Graham, a young social-worker, who thinks the poor should be given a square deal. The two fall in love with each other, but difficulties arise when David has to take sides between the poor and the rich. How he wins both the poor and the rich to the place where they work together, and how at the same time he wins the girl whom he had almost lost by his idealistic practices, form high points in this story.

Kenneth Harlan plays the part of David; Hobart Bosworth is cast as Morton, the millionaire mine owner; Walter Long plays Hex, a ruffian;

SPRING COLDS ARE DANGEROUS

This Simple Treatment Knocks A Cold Right Now

Heed the warning—at first sign of a cold this spring, get busy and get rid of that cold. It's a simple thing if you take it in time.

Send to the drug store for an ordinary jar of Muco Salve which sells for 25 cents.

Melt a little of this salve in a spoon and inhale the vapors which arise. This will clear the head, soothe the upper respiratory tract and give nature a chance to heal the inflamed membranes.

If cold has gotten the start on you, take a good dose of oil at bedtime and rub Muco Salve thickly on chest, covering same with warm cloths, flannel preferably.

In the morning cold will probably be gone.

MOTHER Keep Muco Salve On Hand At All Times for Family Use

It has always been a mother's job to guard the family health. Mother saves our lives every year.

Cold, spring colds, are mother's greatest fear for they so often lead to gripple, influenza and pneumonia.

Don't wait for colds to come. Get a jar of Muco Salve from the drugist for a few cents and have it handy to use first time anyone sneezes.

Doctor's Advice

Your doctor will tell you the common cold is the forerunner of much sickness. He advises you to take every precaution against a cold and to treat your cold at once.

The "Muco Treatment," as some call it, offers the simplest remedy and probably easiest to use. It is pleasant and safe. Muco Salve contains certain healing elements like turpentine and menthol that give off a vapor, which, when inhaled through the nose, reach the upper respiratory tract—the seat of the trouble.

For deep seated chest colds get a bottle of Muco-Solvent (Liquid). This is the prescription of Dr. L. W. Giffen who is well remembered by the people of Neenah, Wis. As the name implies it is a dissolvent which disintegrates the mucus (phlegm) so that it can be expectorated. Muco-Solvent (Liquid) at 75 cents per bottle and Muco Salve at 25 cents per jar form a combination that usually relieves all kinds of colds.

Both are sold everywhere by all druggists. We are positive you can get it here of—

VALUATION OF G. N. IS FIXED

Tentative Valuation Set by The Commission

Washington, April 9.—A tentative valuation of $395,353,955 was fixed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission upon the Great Northern railroad system, the largest railroad property yet to be valued by that body. The estimate did not include, however, securities of other roads held by the Great Northern and having a par value of $192,110,504, and an estimated net interest value of $227,076,370.

The Great Northern itself set in an estimate inclusive of these holdings had placed its total valuation at $607,755,422.

The corporation value of its own railroad at $385,272,853, which was slightly less than the valuation of the commission.

The largest part of the securities held by the Great Northern consist of holdings in the stock of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, which the Great Northern owns jointly with the Northern Pacific.

CALF BORN WITH TWO MOUTHS ON STARK CO. FARM

Dickinson, N. D., April 9.—It takes a real whizzer to hold the attention of people in this day and age when there are so many freaks abroad in the land but Peter Hotrop, farmer residing four miles south of South Heart, brought a freak to Dickinson that made even the most skeptical "pull in their necks" and shiver.

This was the perfectly developed head of a calf born on the Hotrop farm this week—perfectly developed—save for the fact that it had two mouths, one where the mouth of any normal animal should be and the other just below the place where the eyes are usually located.

Set deep into the upper mouth was a pair of eyes, also perfectly developed, and through which the equine would have been able to see—if it had lived. It didn't so Mr. Hotrop despatched the carcass and brought the head to the city to place on exhibition.

The lower mouth was equipped with a tongue and all the accessories necessary to accomplish the process

GIRLS! LEMONS BLEACH FRECKLES

Make this Lemon Cream and Just See Tan, Freckles Disappear

Mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any druggist will supply for a few cents, shake well in a bottle, and you have a whole quarter-pint of the most wonderful freckle and tan cream, and complexion beautifier.

Massage this sweetly fragrant lemon cream into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes naturally bleach right out and how youthfully clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes.

of mastication. The lower jaw, however, protruded about three inches below the upper. In other respects the body of the calf was perfectly formed.

The animal died shortly after it was born, thus cheating some circus out of one of the greatest drawing cards it might have carried in its side shows during the coming season.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITAL

Among the much talked of features of Mac Murray's recent photoplays, "Fascination" and "Broadway Rose," was the dazzling array of gowns that the blonde star wore in those productions. In her latest picture, "Jazzmania," now presented by Robert Z. Leonard at the Capital Theatre, she is said to wear costumes that will make even the most fortunate woman gasp with envy. And the secret has leaked out that practically all of these gowns were made from Miss Murray's own designs.

"I find that all the soft music in the world is of no help to me in catching the necessary mood in acting for the camera unless I have the feeling that the costume I am wearing is the one exactly suited to that mood in color, design and appropriateness," says Miss Murray.

"In 'Jazzmania' I tried the experiment of designing all the gowns myself, on the theory that no one else could possibly understand the psychology and character of the girl I am impersonating as well as I could, after weeks and weeks of study and thought about her."
